

Allies, Commies Agree To Open Armistice Talks Tuesday

Preliminary Mission 100% 'Successful'

Seoul, Korea, Monday, (AP)—Stiffly formal Allied and Communist liaison officers met yesterday in Kaesong—armed Red soldiers were in the city—and agreed to open high level armistice talks there tomorrow.

The chief Allied negotiator said the mission was a "100 per cent success" in arranging for a conference aimed at halting the Korean war, now in its 55th week.

But one Allied representative said several disagreements had to be ironed out at this first meeting and indicated there were times when he thought the talks would fall through.

The conferees, meeting in a house on Kaesong's north side, did not shake hands. Nor did they salute. The Allies declined Red offers of vodka and beer.

The Allied delegation flew to Kaesong, three miles south of Parallel 38 in western Korea, in two helicopters, landing at a red-marked area which was under Communist guard.

"I was startled to see that they had guns," one co-pilot said.

The U. S. Eighth Army had designated Kaesong a no-man's land but Col. Andrew J. Kinney of the U. S. Air Force, said it was in enemy hands.

Colonel Kinney, heading the liaison group, added, however, he did not "see large concentrations of them nor were they evident to us in large groups."

Out across the battle front yesterday, Allied forces ground out limited gains in the central and east-central sectors but Red counterattacks wiped out some advances. Overhead, Allied jets won a new sky fight, 100 miles north of the Kaesong meeting.

Tuesday's armistice talks—of a duration not yet determined—will open in the same once-rich Korean home where liaison groups met yesterday.

Vice Adm. C. Turner Joy, commander of U. S. naval forces in Korean waters, will head the Allied negotiators Tuesday. Other U. N. members will be Maj. Gen. L. C. Craigie, U. S. Air Force; Maj. Gen. Henry I. Hodes, U. S. Eighth Army deputy chief of staff; Rear Adm. Arleigh Burke, U. S. Navy, and Maj. Gen. Paik Sun Yup, Republic of Korea Army.

Kinney said he also expects to continue working on the negotiations.

Communist envoys will be Gen. Hsieh Fang and Gen. Tung Hua of the Chinese Communist forces, and Gen. Nam Il and Maj. Gen. Lee Sang Cho of the North Korean Communist Army.

Travel plans for the envoys have not been announced. Nor has any time been announced for the meeting to begin.

The conference will give Kaesong, one-time capital of Korea, a sheen of fame it has not known for six centuries.

The city is a little less than three miles south of the 38th parallel on the western front. It was the first large south Korean city captured by the Reds when they invaded South Korea at dawn June 25, 1950.

Sixteen newsmen and photographers—still and newsreel—may be taken to Kaesong tomorrow to report the full-scale Korean cease-fire talks.

This was recommended today by Army public information officials. The final decision still rests with Allied supreme headquarters.

No Allied newsmen were permitted at Kaesong for Sunday's meeting of liaison officers in which the conferences starting Tuesday were planned. But the liaison officers said they saw Communist news representatives.

Thirty to 40 armed Red soldiers guarded the helicopters which took Allied envoys to Kaesong, the pilots reported.

Gas Tank Fire Under Control

Newark, N. J., (AP)—Fire at a propane gas storage plant was reported under control yesterday, some 24 hours after a series of explosions rocked the Newark area and flung huge gas tanks into the air like toys.

Shattering explosions of about 100 tanks filled with the highly inflammable cooking gas continued throughout most of Saturday reducing much of the surrounding area to rubble.

Several of the 70-foot long cylindrical tanks, 10 feet in diameter, were tossed through the air like pebbles. One of them skyrocketed three quarters of a mile away into a gasoline service station. Another crashed completely through the building of a neighboring printing ink company. At least 11 persons were injured. Several were hospitalized.

Swarms Of Red Vehicles Jam North Korean Roads; Allied Jets Down Three Red MIGs

U. S. Eighth Army Headquarters, Korea, Monday, (AP)—Swarms of Communist vehicles jammed North Korean roads last night, only a few hours after completion of arrangements for cease-fire talks aimed at ending the year-old war.

Aerial observers counted nearly 3,000 vehicles moving in all directions on all main roads.

In the war's southernmost major jet battle, just north of the Red's capital of Pyongyang, Allied pilots chalked up another victory yesterday morning. They downed three Russian-type MIG jets and damaged two with no loss to themselves, the U. S. Fifth Air Force said.

Thirty-two U. S. Sabre jets and a photo plane escaped unharmed yesterday afternoon from a trap set by more than 60 MIGs over northwest Korea.

The Pyongyang radio asserted three U. S. planes were downed yesterday.

On the ground, United Nations forces launched two limited objective attacks against Red resistance that ranged from light to heavy.

South of Kumsong, on the central front, the Allies advanced 3,000 yards against stiff resistance.

Another Allied force, northeast of Yangu on the east-central front, advanced 3,000 yards to within half a mile of its hill objective, but withdrew before fierce Red counterattack at dusk.

Allied patrols met two platoons of Reds west of Kaesong. However, no Allied forces entered the "neutral zone" established in a five-mile radius around the site of the cease-fire talks.

Elsewhere, Allied soldiers kept Chinese and North Korean forces off balance with aggressive patrols that probed deep into no man's land.

U. S. Wonders Where Reds Will Hit Next

Washington (AP)—State department officials appeared reasonably hopeful yesterday that this week's armistice talks at Kaesong will lead eventually to a cease-fire in Korea. They remain deeply concerned about how and where the Kremlin will strike next in the east-west conflict.

In the grand strategy of this world-wide struggle, Russia seems at the moment to have been forced on the defensive all along the line. It is therefore expected that the Reds shortly will try to find some new place for aggressive action by either military or diplomatic means.

The official willingness of the Communist high command to go along with the armistice talks is regarded here as a tough-minded adjustment of the Reds to reality, not an indication of any basic change in their overall aims or character. The reality as American policy makers see it is that the Communists found, because of United Nations military power, they would have to pay a higher price than they were willing to pay to spread Communism throughout Korea by force; hence they are willing to negotiate for an end to the fighting.

Some authorities here think it likely that Moscow will decide on a diplomatic move as the next major play in the struggle. If so, it is believed that Russia may in the near future accept the pending invitation of the United States, Britain and France for a meeting of the Big Four foreign ministers in Washington this summer.

Such a development would give Moscow a new opportunity to attack western power unity, try to delay western rearmament and promote its own peace propaganda line. The peace angle would fit in nicely with Russia's role, built up in the past two weeks, as a peacemaker in Korea.

Should the Kremlin's choice go to the use of force, which officials here consider unlikely but possible at the moment, or should the truce talks turn out to be merely a cover for a Chinese military buildup in Korea, then the question before officials is what are the danger points where military action might flare up.

Iran heads the list of these because of its strategic position, oil resources and internal weakness, now accentuated by the oil nationalization dispute with Britain.

There are other danger areas which the Reds could seek to exploit, depending on their priority of projects and what they think they might get by with at any particular time. Among these are Germany, Yugoslavia, and south-east Asia, where the Indochina war goes on and could be rapidly expanded if the Soviets and Chinese wished.

Gamecock Ring Raided; Birds Go To Hospitals

Waynesburg, (AP)—Hospitals and institutions in this Western Pennsylvania town got an unexpected assist from the police yesterday—enough chicken for a whopping dinner.

State police conducted one of their biggest raids in recent years on a cock-fighting pit at a nearby farm. They found three vanquished and dead—along with 79 awaiting action.

Also confiscated were steel spurs, scales and 15 cases of beer. Fifty-one fighting enthusiasts were unable to escape as the police blocked off the only road leading to the farm. They all were charged with cruelty to animals and all posted $10 forfeits.

The gamecocks, some valued at hundreds of dollars, will be given to hospitals and institutions and should be on the menu sometime this week.

Upper Darby, (AP)—Even though almost everyone is away for the weekend townships police received an urgent call for emergency action yesterday.

"There's a baby under an automobile out here," the alarmed caller informed Sgt. Joseph Cassano.

A patrol car was dispatched to the scene immediately.

Det. John Boyle found a fully-clothed rubber doll sprawled under the car.

Man Falls To Death Hunting Injured Wife

Reading (AP)—A 22-year-old husband stepped off a precipice and fell 60 feet to his death yesterday while looking for his injured wife in the darkness of early morning.

Albert A. Adamski, was driving home to Reading with his wife, May, 25, when his car hit a utility pole near Erville. Adamski was only stunned by the impact but his wife was thrown from the car.

John A. High, who was awakened by the crash, said he reached the scene as Adamski was shouting he couldn't find his wife.

"I didn't have a chance to warn him he was standing at the brink of the quarry. As I reached him he grabbed my flashlight, took one step and fell screaming into space," High told police.

After Adamski's body was recovered by State police, Dr. Paul D. Good, Berks county coroner, said he died instantly of a crushed skull.

Mrs. Adamski was found nearby unconscious.

Fluoridation Plant Opened

Ford City (AP)—A chemical credited with cutting tooth decay 50 per cent is being fed today into the water system in this western Pennsylvania community through a new $700 fluoridation plant.

Hundreds saw the plant go into action at an open house celebration in honor of Ford City's pioneering in the first water fluoridation experiment in Pennsylvania. State Senator A. R. Pechan (R-Armstrong) who is co-sponsoring a proposed bill which would require water companies to install fluoridation plants in communities which request them, is the one who crusaded for its establishment here.

Air Colonel Killed

Tokyo (AP)—Col. Karl C. Polifka of Watsonville, Calif., a pioneer and key figure in military aerial reconnaissance, has been killed in action in Korea, the U. S. Far East Air Forces announced yesterday.

Fred Teeter Fatally Hurt In Collision

Fred Teeter Jr., 21, of Oxford, N. J., was fatally injured when his stock car went into a spin in the third heat of the races at Delaware Valley Speedway, outside East Stroudsburg, at 4:10 p. m. yesterday. He died at Monroe County General hospital from a fractured skull and hemorrhage at 4:25 p. m.

William Howell, one of the owners of the speedway, informed Pfc. Peter E. Sabinsky, of the Stroudsburg State police station, that there were nine cars competing in the heat and that Teeter's car went into a spin as it made a turn on the half-mile track.

Car No. 7 driven by Gene Comunal, 20, of 1138 N. Fifth St., Stroudsburg, crashed into the side of the Teeter machine with such terrific force that the safety belt on Teeter was broken and he was thrown violently through the door on the opposite side of the car and landed on the track. The car then rolled over on Teeter.

There were two other cars involved. One was driven by George Green, who was slightly injured and taken to the hospital and discharged. The fourth driver, whose identity was not definitely established by police last night, was not injured.

Comunal was taken to the hospital and treated for head injuries and later discharged.

Dr. Roman J. Batory, Main St., Stroudsburg, physician at the track went to the aid of the injured driver and directed his removal to the hospital, where he was taken in the ambulance with Comunal.

Dr. W. E. Andrew, Monroe county coroner, was called and gave a certificate of death from a fractured skull.

The body was turned over to Dunkelberger and Westbrook, Stroudsburg funeral directors. E. H. DeVoe, Washington, N. J., undertaker, later took possession of the remains.

Stroudsburg State police contacted Trooper R. Delaney, of the Washington, N. J., barracks, requesting him to inform the nearest of kin of the fatal accident. Nothing was revealed late last night of the members of the family of the young man, who was reported as being single.

This was the first fatal accident to happen on the speedways operated in Monroe county.

The Delaware Valley Speedway is owned and operated by Mr. Howell, of Cherry Valley, N. D.; A. Lewis Williams of East Stroudsburg, R. D. 3, and J. M. King of Stroudsburg.

Tiny Baby Suffers Leg Fracture At Premature Birth

St. Louis (AP)—Trussed up in traction splints in his incubator, 24-day-old Thomas Ringo Holt is recovering nicely from a leg fracture suffered at birth.

The prematurely-born baby, son of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Holt of Sturgis, Ky., presented physicians at St. Mary's hospital with quite a problem.

The usual materials for a traction splint were far too heavy for the three-pound, seven-ounce patient. Besides, they wouldn't fit into an incubator.

But five days after his birth, physicians finally contrived a device made of strings, parts of a cigar box and pieces of adhesive tape. They substituted bolts and nuts for the usual pulley weights.

The parents were vacationing in St. Louis when the baby was born.

Train Wreck Injures 60

Utica, Ill., (AP)—Nineteen persons were in hospitals yesterday with injuries suffered when a west-bound Santa Fe passenger train left the tracks near Utica.

Most of the 375 passengers aboard the train Saturday night when it chewed up 2,000 feet of track were able to continue their trip yesterday on a special train.

Eight cars jack-knifed, but only one car, a forward coach, was upset in the accident. Approximately 60 persons were injured.

No lives were lost, and none of the 19 persons who remained in hospitals at LaSalle and Ottawa, Ill., yesterday, was reported seriously hurt. The cause of the derailment was not determined, road officials said.

The accident occurred on tracks of the Rock Island lines over which the Santa Fe train had been routed to avoid a flood washout in Missouri.

Many of the injured passengers were given first aid by two nurse-stewardesses who were members of the train crew, and a group of 10 navy and marine passengers who formed a minute-man rescue team.

Russia Parades Fast New Jets

Moscow, (AP)—Prime Minister Stalin watched a strutting parade of new, very powerful and very fast jet fighter planes at the Soviet Air Force's big show yesterday.

Some western observers who saw the planes on display for the first time said they appeared capable of supersonic speeds (760 miles an hour at sea level, about 660 miles an hour at high altitudes).

The air show, postponed from last Sunday because of bad weather, took place at Tushino airport, on Moscow's outskirts, with Prime Minister Stalin watching from a balcony of the Chkalov Air club.

The big truck, owned by Anita Oshinski of Maplewood, N. J., was starting down a mile-long grade when it went out of control. State police said the truck lost its air pressure so that it had no brakes. Some eyewitnesses said the brakes seemed to be smoking.

The truck rushed down the mountain road, gathering speed. Many of the cars it ripped into were, like the truck, bound in the direction of New York City.

On the side of the road is a steep embankment, on the other—the truck's side—a ditch. Three cars were forced into the ditch.

Other cars were scattered across the roadway.

Editor, Daily Record,
Stroudsburg, Pa.
Dear Editor:

Recently a matter has come to my attention that seems to be of far-reaching importance. A six-day-old baby was deemed to need a blood-transfusion. This was objected to by the parents, who based their objection on the record in the Fifteenth Chapter of The Acts, and on other scriptures.

This Fifteenth Chapter reports a discussion among the Apostles of what physical restrictions a Christian must be under. There were only three (the law having been abolished at the death of Christ), and one of them was "to abstain from blood," repeating for Christians a command originally given to Noah.

Taking blood into the circulatory system by way of the stomach or by direct injection is a violation of this straightforward command. Abstain! (You don't abstain from doing for instance by merely changing the manner of administration.)

This scripturally supported objection was over-ruled by the courts and a transfusion was administered.

The serious questions then arise: what right has anyone to force a violation of God's supreme law upon Christian parents? Can any violation of Jehovah God's command be justified by man-made considerations? Are not fundamental liberties of conscience guaranteed under our constitution being tampered with?

The parents well know that disobedience to our Maker's command means eternal death. "The wages of sin is death." Also that the life of their baby is in the capable hands of the Master Physician.

Since when is it more important for a Christian to save his own physical life or somebody else's if it means losing his right to eternal life? Jesus emphatically answered: Never!

In these days when the Creator's laws are given lip service only, by so many, in these days when there is such a crying need to return to simple Christianity with love for our Maker and our Neighbor, in these days when personal Bible study is so neglected, it is disheartening and ominous to be confronted with a deliberate court action flaunting Jehovah's eternal commands.

If you would be kind enough to print this letter, I should be most grateful.

Most sincerely,
Fred N. Severud

It is estimated that for the last three centuries the population of the world has increased about five per thousand people each year on the average; but since 1900 the average has been about eight per thousand.

Dear Editor:
The Daily Record,
Stroudsburg, Pa.
Dear Sir:

Regarding the headlines in today's Record concerning the 28th Division, I am writing as one out of the many Co. G. wives who feel you could serve your community better by finding out confirmed facts before you print anything that causes so many cases of nerves.

Why don't you find out the answer to one question we all have on our minds day and night. That question being: Will they send fathers to Germany who have served before? Many of us have two children which is just under the amount of dependents to have to be discharged and most of our husbands have served overseas in World War Two for three years. If you could find the answer to this question I'm sure we'd all feel better than after reading your unconfirmed rumors.

We all feel Indiana is far enough away especially since there was no room there for families to be together.

We wives would feel differently if our husbands had joined the Army, but when our civilian soldiers were jerked into service practically overnight, well, I'm afraid most of us haven't quite gotten over the shock.

Our husbands fought in World War Two to have a free future to marry and start families and now the very future they started is not theirs to share. Let the single and non-Veterans go to Germany to protect their future, we feel our husbands deserve theirs they have started.

Sincerely,
"A Co. G. Wife"

Fire Destroys Building In Stroud Twp.

Fire totally destroyed a frame cabin, together with contents, on the Cranberry road at the rear of the Manitou cabins Saturday morning. The building was owned by Arthur Frantz. Exact amount of damages was not determined last night, but it was understood there was no fire insurance on the property.

Discovered about 9:30 a.m. by a neighbor, Walter Learn, the fire had made such headway that there was nothing the Stroud Township Fire department could do to save the place.

The firemen responded immediately after Mr. Learn sent in the alarm, but their arrival on the scene found the entire roof and the side walls in flames.

The Mid-Stroud company used the 750 gallons of water contained in the tank of their truck. The Anasomink and Cherry Valley trucks also responded thus adding to the water supply. The Cherry Valley truck made an extra trip to a stream nearby for an added supply of water.

The firemen were on the job about an hour and a half, Chief Stanley Heller reported. The cause of the fire was not determined.

The cabin was used for storage of lumber, roofing material and the like, firemen reported.

NEW, MIRACLE ELECTRONIC EAR HIDES DEAFNESS

CHICAGO, (Special)—An amazing new electronic ear which hides deafness and transmits even whispers with startling clarity, has been revealed by a noted Chicago electronic scientist.

He disclosed that this miraculous new discovery has rendered old-style hearing aids obsolete almost overnight, and brings new hope to the 15 million persons in the United States who are hard of hearing.

He reported that this electronic ear enables the deaf to hear without any button showing in the ear and without dangling battery wires.

To acquaint the hard of hearing readers of this paper with this new miracle electronic ear which hides deafness, full details are described in a fascinating booklet, "New Discoveries to Help the Deaf Hear." It will be sent free in a plain wrapper to anyone who requests it. Address: Electronic Research Director, 1450 West 19th Street, 529-A Belmont Building, Chicago 8, Ill. Two Held For Court; Third Jailed

Lawrence Cammerari, 26, of 530 N. Sixth St., Bangor, and Louis Faraldo, 30, of 524 N. Sixth St., also Bangor, were held for the Monroe county court grand jury by Justice of the Peace William N. Walton Saturday afternoon charged with rape on a 16-year-old girl. Pfc. Alexander G. Kearns, of Stroudsburg State police barracks, is the prosecutor.

The hearing was the outcome of the arrest of the two men following charges given police by the girl who is reported to have said she had been staying at the Rev. Percy Crawford camp, Pinebrook, near Ananokim.

The girl was the only one questioned at the hearing before Justice Walton after Pfc. Kearns had sworn out the charge of rape against the two defendants who had been held in county jail since their arrest on Friday.

The girl, in brief testimony, charged the two defendants attacked her on a back woods road between Canadensis and Stroudsburg, but said she didn't know the exact location of the road.

Attorney Kennard Lewis, who represented the defendants, cross-examined the girl and asked that the case be dismissed, contending that rape had not been proven. Walton refused and recommitted the two men to jail to await action of the grand jury. Bail cannot be fixed by a justice of the peace in rape cases, it was stated. The defendants were not questioned at the hearing.

The only other persons in attendance at the hearing were Pfc. Kearns and Sgt. Morgan B. Davis, in charge of the local barracks of State police. The arrests followed the investigation conducted by Pfc. Kearns, Stroudsburg, and Pfc. T. H. Kolokoski and Francis McGann, of the Daleville State police sub-station.

It was reported at Scranton that Lawrence Anthony Pacifico, of Main St., Roseto, was being held in the Lackawanna county jail, that city, on a rape charge in connection with the case of the 16-year-old girl.

From the same source it was learned last night that another arrest was expected to be made today, also that a fifth man formerly implicated in the case had been cleared by State troopers.

According to police the girl left Camp Pinebrook the night of July 4 on a contemplated trip to Michigan. Picked up somewhere on Route 90 by occupants of a car, she was brought to a bus station in Stroudsburg where she bought a ticket for Scranton.

Later the ticket was returned, police said the girl told them, and she entered another car for Scranton. It was while in the mountain section of the county she alleges the first attack took place. She is reported to have said the second attack took place in Lackawanna county.

Negotiations Slated Today In Dispute

Tobyhanna — The overtime rate dispute between union workers and Roche Bros. Inc., East Pittsburgh, Pa. contractors, on the first phase of the $30,000,000 Army Signal depot here was still deadlocked last night.

Called at 1:30 p. m. Friday after pay checks were issued to workers, the stoppage on the site clearing and preparation contract ranging close to $3,000,000, was no nearer settlement last night despite efforts to resolve the dispute.

Heads of the contracting firm are expected to arrive here this morning, however, and go into immediate conference with representatives of the two unions involved in the walkout. It was understood last night that the contractors themselves are the only ones empowered to negotiate with the unions.

Workers are asking double time for overtime, while the contractor contends they are entitled to only time and one-half.

Unions involved in the disputes are the International Hod Carriers, Building and Common Laborers of America (AFL), and the International Union of Operating Engineers (AFL).

Capt. John A. Myers, resident engineer for the Army Corps of Engineers, Philadelphia district, reported the work stoppage promptly on Friday. He was in Philadelphia . . . his home . . . during the week-end and was not available for comment last night. However, Capt. Myers made it clear Friday the dispute is one in which the government does not enter since it is strictly between the contractor and the employees.

The contractor on this first phase of the giant project has 150 days from date of notification to commence work to complete clearing and site preparation work on the 1,400-acre tract.

Nine Persons Suffer Hurts In Series Of Three Auto Accidents On Route 611

Tobyhanna—State police of the Mount Pocono sub-station were kept on the jump Saturday night when two motor crashes happened at the intersection of Route 611 and the road leading into the village of Tobyhanna and a third occurred opposite the Rhineland Inn, also on Route 611, below Mount Pocono. A total of nine persons were injured, only one of whom had to be hospitalized.

Cars involved in the first series of crashes were light 1949 sedans. One was operated by Salvatore Rizzitello, 25, of Newark, N. J., and the other by William H. Halloran, 46, of Lancaster, Pa.

Traffic was heavy at the time and cars were running two abreast, police said, when Halloran stopped his machine with directional blinkers working. Rizzitello was about to make a left turn and failed to see Halloran's car due to another machine passing.

The left front of the Rizzitello car was damaged to the extent of about $250 and had to be towed to a garage. Halloran's vehicle was damaged approximately $350 in the right rear, but was able to move away on its own power. Pfc. George Voznisky and Homer Jones of the Mount Pocono station investigated.

Two passengers in the Halloran car were injured. Mrs. Nellie Halloran, 67, of Lancaster, suffered a fractured right arm, sprained neck and left ankle and Mrs. Dorothy Halloran, 38, wife of the operator, had contusions of the right shoulder. Halloran escaped injury. Dr. E. O. Headrick, of Mount Pocono, treated them at the scene and Mrs. Nellie Halloran was taken to a Scranton hospital by a passing motorist.

The passengers in the Rizzitello machine who escaped injury were Stanley Kowalek, 18; Jennie Kowalek, 21, and Anna Rizzitello, 24, all of Newark, N. J.

The second crash occurred at 7:30 p. m., when efforts were being made to move in a wrecker to remove the cars involved in the first crash.

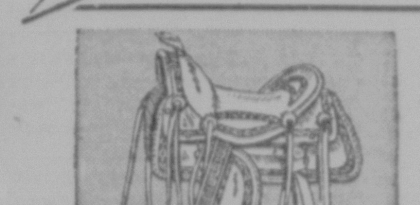

Trooper Voznisky was directing traffic when Michael Churney, 40, of Peckville, was moving south in a light 1947 sedan. According to police Churney was talking to the passengers in the car when they started screaming as they noted cars ahead.

Churney is said to have slammed on his brakes and the machine skidded into the 1940 sedan operated by Anthony T. Nedewski, 48, of New Castle, Del., which had stopped in traffic. Damages were estimated at $200 to each vehicle by Pfc. Jones, who investigated. Passengers injured in the Churney machine were: The driver, lacerated forehead; Yolanda Ciel-

Collisions Occur Here; Driver Cited

Stroudsburg police were called on yesterday to investigate two motor accidents, the driver of one car being cited for a stop sign violation.

Officer William Dwyer investigated a one car crash at Park and Morningside Aves., at 2:45 p. m. Mrs. Mary Dempsey, of Trenton, N. J., was driving a light model 1950 sedan headed south. Something went wrong with the brakes which caused the machine to veer off to the curb in front of the Smith residence.

The grille, front axle and bumper were damaged and the tires on both right wheels were blown. After changing wheels, the operator was able to move away on own power of the car.

A two-car collision occurred at the intersection of Routes 90 and 611 at 6:30 p. m. yesterday.

Karl Ziegelstein, 29, of Toronto, Can., was moving north on Route 611 in a 1949 sedan. David Rosenberg, 62, of Bronx, N. Y., driving a 1950 sedan, came out of Broad St., on Route 90, moving south. He made a left turn when his car collided with that of Ziegelstein.

The left front of the Ziegelstein car was damaged to the extent of $250, while the left front fender and door of the Rosenberg machine was damaged $150. A wrecker was called to move the latter car.

Officer John H. Baujan, who investigated, cited Rosenberg for passing through a stop sign.

Injured Rider 'Fair'
William Annan, Philadelphia, a vacationer who was seriously hurt when a horse he was riding fell upon him, was reported to be in fair condition by the Monroe County General hospital late last night.

James Stettler suffered lacerations of the scalp and Franklin Stettler, 38, fractured right shoulder, and contusions of the right side of the head. Nellie Jane Terk, 53, had contusions of the abdomen and right forearm. They were all treated at the scene by Dr. Headrick.

A New Constitution

When the General Assembly meets again this week, there is hope that a new bill authorizing a constitutional convention will be ready for submission, and that through its passage a real effort to revise the 77-year-old Constitution of Pennsylvania may be achieved.

The office of Attorney General Robert E. Woodside is at work on the draft for such a measure, which is expected to call for a referendum on whether the convention should be held and for the election of delegates should a decision be made.

Both the convention issue proper and the naming of the delegates would have to be voted on in the general election of November 6, and candidates for delegates would have to be named by the political parties since it is already too late to place them on the primary ballot.

Since the revision of the 1874 Constitution was pledged in last year's Republican party campaign platform, it has the support of Governor Fine, as well as of many judges and lawyers throughout the Commonwealth. That much good would come of such revisions cannot be doubted, for in the changes that have come about through the years many of the provisions of the early enactment have lost all meaning in the modern world.

There will be a certain element of opposition to the convention, without doubt, not only by those who are always opposed to any change but by those who feel that an income tax might be written into a new Constitution.

Yet it would seem apparent to every citizen who views the proposition unselfishly that after nearly a century a review of the old document is in order and that such changes as may be recommended and written into the new one could not fail to produce a modern Constitution more closely keyed to the present day.

The 28th To Europe

Although it has been rumored for many months, from shortly after Pennsylvania's 28th Infantry Division was recalled to active duty last September, it is only now that the Department of Defense tacitly admits the forthcoming departure of the outfit for Europe to join the forces of free nations under General Eisenhower.

This will be the third military journey to Europe for some of the older officers and men of the 28th, and the second for a great many more. Drawn from all sections of Pennsylvania, the National Guard division has a majority of new men among its personnel, but still contains a strong leavening of combat-tested veterans who helped train the troops and will lead them across the Atlantic.

Right now, the 28th is finishing up its months of work at Camp Atterbury, in Indiana, with a strenuous four weeks of maneuvers closely tied in with air support. Next month the soldiers wearing the red keystone on their shoulders will move to North Carolina for the elaborate maneuver involving several airborne divisions and at least one other infantry division. And thereafter, according to well authenticated reports, they will head for ports of embarkation, although it is assumed they will have a brief period of leave to visit their homes before shoving off.

Pennsylvania is proud of the record of its soldiery in all wars, and it continues to be proud of the manner in which the division has been shaping up since it began its training. It is certain that the Commonwealth will be proud of the way in which its soldiers carry on in their new overseas duties, and that the fine record of the Guard in peace and in war will continue.

Other National Guard divisions, soon to be called out, will take the place of the 28th and similar units in the camps they will vacate. As Secretary of the Army Pace said this week, there will be no slackening in the program of mobilization and rearmament, a definite guaranty of our freedom.

Hollywood

By Gene Handsaker

Hollywood — Alan Young, in one of his comedy routines, takes a newspaper clipping out of his billfold and reads excitedly from a gossip column:

"Which actress was seen at what night club with what young man, discussing what picture deal with what director?"

"That's me!" Alan proudly tells his audience, to prove he's being written about in the papers. "I'm the second what from the which."

And that indeed is Alan Young, the perennial "little man" in all his television and movie situations. One time he's a pimento paddler in a cannery, charged with restuffing loosely filled olives. Another time he's a scared passenger taking his first airplane flight. Trying to be nice to everybody, he opens an air vent and hopelessly scatters another passenger's important business papers.

"There are two ways to get people to laugh," the sad-faced young Canadian explains. "One is to hit 'em in the face with a joke. The other is to prod 'em gently with a line out of left field. I'd rather have 'em say 'Aw,' with a sigh, than get a big laugh. They can remember the gentle joke better."

Alan, as a country bumpkin in "Aaron Slick from Punkin Creek," is tossed about ridiculously on a blanket by the floor-show cuties in a city night-club he happens to visit. His director, Claude Binyon, thinks that "without copying them, he has a touch of Chaplin, Stan Laurel, and Stu Erwin."

His sister's illness got Alan into show business. When he was 12, in Vancouver, B. C., she was scheduled to recite a sad poem before a local Scottish society. Alan, pressed into service as a substitute, did a parody of her poem and got a lot of laughs. Performing, he knew then, was for him. Canadian radio got him into Hollywood radio where, he says, "I was lucky to hang on until television came along."

A Paramount executive, signing him up, said, "Frankly, I never heard of you, but my kids are talking about you." Young's next picture is "Androcles and the Lion." Shaw's play about the little tailor whom the hungry lion refuses to eat in the arena. The tailor has previously befriended the lion by removing a thorn from his paw.

After that comes "Sad Sack," with Alan as a muddy GI who repairs the general's car while the sergeant gets the credit. Probably next will be "Clarence," in which his gentle spirit pervades a whole angry household. Playing the little man is paying off big for Alan Young.

These Days — By George E. Sokolsky

Sokolsky

Peace Is Difficult
The problems of peace are always more complex than the problems of war. From the war between the States (1861-1865) until 1914, the United States was far from the problems of war. The slight Spanish-American War did not affect the economy of the nation or bring about social or political changes.

During the past 37 years, the problems of war have perturbed the American people and have, in reality, effected a severe economic, social and political revolution, the magnitude of which is not yet historically ascertainable. The fact remains that the fundamental economic measure of this revolution, the 16th Amendment to the Constitution, was adopted in 1913, almost as a prelude to events about to occur. This amendment gave Congress the power "to lay and collect taxes on incomes, from whatever source derived, without apportionment among the several states, and without regard to any census or enumeration."

Washington Report

By Fulton Lewis Jr.

Washington, July 8.—The Morgan Oil and Refining Company, owned by President Harry Truman, D. H. Morgan and W. H. Lynn, of Kansas, in 1916, edged a lot of easy money by floating 60,000 shares of worthless oil stock.

In large newspaper advertisements they welcomed a flock of suckers by extolling the virtues of the company's management, its rich holdings and its oil refinery at Rollin, Kans. One widow got taken for $262.50 via a come-on letter from Mr. Truman. She died broke.

I never thought I'd get lost in Kansas looking for an oil refinery. Nor that I'd get lost looking for Rollin, Kans. Both have vanished. In fact, as far as I can find out, the refinery never existed, and Rollin, at best, was a store, an outhouse and a wide spot in the road. I've practically had to disinter old-timers to find someone who remembers Rollin. Only Mr. Truman's buddy, Morgan, remembers the refinery, and he's hazy about details. In fact, he's wrong. If there was anything at Rollin it was an oil skimming plant, not a refinery. A "skimming" or "topping" plant is the first clean-up process for crude petroleum, where the worst of the sludge and dirt is taken off.

Just like the Morgan Oil and Refining Company, its stock profits and holdings, things like a town and a refinery disappear fast in Kansas. Rollin, Kansas is now a flag stop along a railroad south, out of Chanute. That means it consists of a sign, put up by the railroad, reading: "Rollin." Nothing else. No people, no refinery, no oil company. I'm indebted to C. D. Blackwood, of the National Supply Company at Chanute, along with his wife. They probably remember more about the extinct town of Rollin than anyone else in Kansas. Their best recollection is that the so-called Truman-Morgan refinery went out of existence in 1911 or 1912. That was four years at best before Truman and Morgan were touting it as a choice bit of property they were willing to share with a few thousand investors.

Rollin was one of those oil boom towns, laid out by speculators. You probably haven't thought about one for a long time, but if you've ever lived in an oil country you won't have any trouble recalling what they are like, nicely laid out streets, dirt of course, but well named, with a few trees lining the drive, plus various plots designated with wooden signs such as "store," "hardware shop," "factory," etc.

Such was the beginning and the end of Rollin. The Santa Fe Railroad, taken in by the boom town talk, moved a boxcar in on a siding for a railroad station. It rotted on the tracks. Local jokesters soon termed the town "Roll-In," in deference to the solitary piece of railroad stock on the siding.

Blackwood and his wife agreed that the skimming plant "didn't amount to much." Blackwood said it consisted of a few pumps, boilers and a "run-down" house. He said the only Morgan he ever heard of around Rollin or Chanute was a Lex Morgan, who was not the President's partner.

Nothing is left of the Rollin plant that was held out to oil stock buyers in the Truman-Morgan company. Not even rusty iron scrap. Thirty-five years isn't such a long time for a big plant to be in operation. In fact, in Chanute there is an oil refinery now in operation that was built before the skimming plant at Rollin, but it was a real refinery, with all the machinery you usually associate with a commercial oil operation.

Apparently none of the Kansas citizens who purchased shares in designed in 1925 by order of Congress.

William O'Dwyer was the 100th mayor of New York City.

United States paper money is 6 1/2 inches long.

More about that tomorrow.

In a word, it gave Congress the authority to levy an income tax on the individual citizen, which in turn came to be a tax to redistribute wealth, and is now a tax to siphon off the earnings of the people in pursuit of fiscal policies of the government.

Without the income tax, the corporation tax and similar measures, the Government could not have financed three wars, World War I, World War II, and the continuing, unnamed war with Soviet Russia, of which the Korean war is a battle. It is this enormous revenue that permits close to a $100,000,000,000 budget, including vast and often profligate aid to other countries. But these taxes are also reducing the savings of the American people and are producing vast social changes, such as lowering the "white-collar class into a proletariat and the gradual elimination of the small businessman."

Thirty-seven years of war have also had the effect, to be redundant, of developing a needlessly vast Federal bureaucracy, men and women often employed temporarily for war purposes, but whom the government will not dismiss either for political reasons or to avoid swelling the number of unemployed.

My New York

New York — Items like the state of the nation and the trend of living these days are for deeper thinkers than I; mine is a small world, bounded by jazz bands, cafes, tennis courts and the right number of beer bottles in the icebox to sustain life.

It does appear to me, though, that they have trapped the course with an enormous number of obstacles to the man who wants to make something of himself these days. If he makes a buck, the government is going to pull a gun on him and take most of it in taxes, and if he sets up a factory to make a new and better kind of cigaret lighter all his workers are going to strike on him.

If he writes a great book, the public will by-pass it for best-seller trash and if he paints a great picture he might — just might — get a job posting bills for two bucks a day. The deck is stacked.

The funny thing about it is, some men still try. I met one the other day, a lean, amiable soul from Hollis, L. I., called Paul Reilly, who in three years has built himself up a business from scratch while foolishly disregarding all the sand traps.

He is not exactly a roaring success yet but the wolf long since has stopped scratching with his paw the Reilly door. I guess that having ambition is like being in love; there's not a single thing you can do about it.

Reilly did it the Twentieth Century way—by specializing. When he got out of the Army — he was overseas three years with the 97th Division as a platoon sergeant and had all the brushes with death he wants for the rest of his life—he tried to figure out something to do that nobody else was doing. He finally hit on it. He became a supplier of private limousines for celebrities.

Make that "limousine" No "s". Paul had about $500 in his kick, and the knowledge you never get anywhere unless you take a chance. He floated a bank loan — and plunked down four thousand bucks for a used seven-passenger limousine that cost $6,000 when new. One of those big black jobs you see floating up and down Fifth avenue, when if you look real close, you spot Joan Fontaine or Rita Hayworth or somebody in the back seat.

"I bought myself a chauffeur's outfit," Paul said, "—and went out for business. Man—that first year! I must have scrambled 20 hours a day, drumming up trade. It came, but it came slowly. I got a foot in here, a wedge in there, and pretty soon the celebrities began to know who I was and phone me when they hit town. After a year, I was all right—not to the point where I could begin to loaf, but I started to pay off the loan and I had a steady income coming in."

When a couple of the big radio networks and some of the movie companies began contacting Paul to drive their big wheels coming to Manhattan, the battle was really won. Now he's got another $6,000 limousine, a chauffeur working for him, and a third limousine on the way if he ever can lay hands on one.

He calls his dodge "Artists Service." If you ride with Paul or in one of his cars, you get a radio and a telephone in the car and, if you have the dough to pay for it, he'll stick with you all day and most of the night. I guess he'll even pick you up if you're too stiff to walk and carry you up to your hotel room, as part of the Truman-Morgan oil company ever journeyed to Rollin. They might have started hollering for their money sooner. Some of them are wondering right now if they might not be able to collect. I doubt it, even though one 10-share holder wants to hold a stockholders' meeting in Kansas City now. After all, the President signed incorporation papers setting up the company for a 50-year period. It's only been 35 years today.

More about that tomorrow.

In line with these necessities, it has seemed to be advantageous to keep young men and women longer at school than they need to be and it has been necessary to subsidize, at times, idleness and unemployment. In a word, war has wrought many changes unimaginable to the citizen who looked upon the United States in any year from 1865 to 1913.

The most damaging result of war is the difficulty of achieving peace. In terms of history, World War I is still unsettled, for the central problem of Europe remains Germany, its political and economic structure and its place in the family of nations. As for World War II, there is not even a peace treaty to bespeak its terminus.

One major aim of World War I, as expressed by Woodrow Wilson, was the organization of a parliament of nations as an improvement upon the balance of power and the concert of Europe. The breakdown of the organization of the world even prior to 1914 was inevitable with the emergence of the United States, Germany and Japan as greater powers than Great Britain, France, Holland, Belgium and the Austro-Hungarian empire. In World War II, this was complicated by the emergence of Soviet Russia and her various satellite countries as the largest and strongest empire in the world.

The League of Nations could not have been anything but a transition from the tight concert of Europe to such a world as we see today. The United Nations has not yet proved itself in any respect, and only time or the next general war will determine its value. Meanwhile, a competing federation of states exists and functions in the Soviet world, supported by Russian military force.

The effort to establish a peace as a result of the Korean truce is frightening to the countries outside the Russian orbit because the initiative is with Stalin and no one can even guess how he will use it. He can use it for war as well as peace. He can use it to prolong the "constant war," that is, the weakening of the economy of the United States so that the western powers will lack the strength, and even the will, to resist.

This is historically a time for caution and great wisdom. Russia plays not for permanent peace, but for a one world directed by the Kremlin.

One of the greatest mistakes anyone can make is to consider himself an authority on anything. No matter how much of a so-called "expert" one may be on any subject, he can go no farther than to know or express what is known about that subject TODAY.

Today's "facts" may tomorrow become yesterday's superstitions. For what he is applauded today, the scientist or expert may be ridiculed tomorrow.

Yesterday the earth was positively known and proven to be FLAT.

Today we know just as positively and can prove just as scientifically that it is ROUND. Tomorrow it may be octagonal, oval or pie-shaped. That, too, will be proved beyond the shadow of a doubt, and nobody will dare to deny it.

Yesterday's drugs today are considered "grandmother's cure-alls." We laugh at them, and a constant flow of new medicines is discovered to make us healthier, if not wiser. Tomorrow today's wonder drugs will be ridiculed, and tomorrow's doctors will examine them and say "How quaint!"

Thus, I repeat, no one has the right to consider himself an authority on anything—least of all a columnist.

A little while ago I expressed the opinion that the basis of successful marriage is LOVE.

Today I have received a letter from a sixteen-year-old girl in Xenia, Ohio, who states and PROVES that I am all wrong.

And would you believe it? I may be all wrong, at that. I don't know. Do YOU?

Mr. and Mrs. Jay H. Fish Jr.

Jay Fish, Frances Cramer Married At Grace Lutheran

Miss Frances M. Cramer, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Fred Cramer, of East Stroudsburg RD 2, became the bride of Jay H. Fish Jr., son of Jay H. Fish Sr., of Monroe St., East Stroudsburg, at 3 p. m. Sunday before the candle-lit altar of Grace Evangelical Lutheran church, East Stroudsburg.

Rev. William F. Wunder, Grace church pastor, officiated at the single-ring ceremony. The altar was graced with bouquets of white gladioli and red carnations intertwined with baby's breath.

The bride was attired in an aqua point organza street length dress with white accessories and she wore a corsage of red rosebuds. Attending her as matron-of-honor was Mrs. Marie Turner, who was attired in an aqua crepe street length dress with pink accessories and she also wore a red rosebud corsage.

Lester Turner served as best man.

Following the wedding a reception was held at the bride's home for the bridal party. Following the reception the newlyweds left on a honeymoon trip to Erie.

The bride was formerly employed with Van D. Yetter Jr., farm machinery dealer, of Marshalls Creek. The bride was graduated from the East Stroudsburg High school with the class of 1948 and the bridegroom attended the Middle Smithfield schools.

Auxiliary Picnic Tuesday

The annual picnic of the Marshall's Creek Fire Co. auxiliary will be held Tuesday night at 6:30 at the home of Mrs. Lawton Huffman, Craig's Meadows. Mrs. Richard MacDonald will assist as hostess.

Members are asked to bring card table as well as their contribution to the supper, and their own table service.

Just Between Us

—By Bobby Westbrook

You wouldn't have to get further than our front door to realize that the children were home from camp. Books, pictures, camp newspapers, woven belts, camp emblems, a miniature rock pile of blue stones, are all jumbled together with half-unpacked suitcases right in the middle of the living room.

Which is as far as the children get before they had to open everything up to show just what they had brought home and who their counselors were and the addresses they'd collected, and the new camp songs they'd learned.

Certainly is a jumble—but a welcome one after the almost painful neatness and quiet that has prevailed since they've been gone.

Characteristically, Nan came home with a lot of new expressions and Pete came home minus one pair of dungarees which he'd wisely left at camp after an encounter with a skunk. But both of them bigger, older, wiser, and much more appreciative of their home than they have been since last time they went to camp.

Which appreciation will probably last until I start getting firm about getting the clutter put away. But children aren't the only ones who learn something through this camping experience. Parents learn a little appreciation, too.

Foster Homes Needed To Care For 7 Local Children

The need for foster homes has become an acute problem with the Children's Aid Society of Monroe county, and at the present time there are seven children who are waiting for foster homes.

Mrs. Frank L. Patterson Jr., president of the board of directors, said yesterday "Unless more families are willing to open their homes to children, the Children's Aid Society will be forced to curtail its services. This will mean that parents and children in troubled circumstances will not be able to come to the Children's Aid Society for foster home placement."

"The agency has always been able to meet children's needs in the past through the generous help of many Monroe county families, who have taken children into their homes. At the present time, however, there are seven children who are waiting for foster homes."

"Four of these children are living in very difficult circumstances because their homes have been broken up. Three of them are in temporary foster homes, where they cannot stay much longer. These children range in age from 2 to 13 years, with four of them girls and three, boys."

Any family who may be interested in taking a child into their home can make inquiries at the Children's Aid Society, at 617 Sarah St., or telephone the office at 967. The foster parents are paid board for the children, who are also provided with clothing and medical care.

The social workers keep in close touch with the foster families, and with the children so that they can be of help when needed.

Children placed with the Children's Aid Society are usually not free for adoption, and are referred for placement because their parents have had some trouble such as illness, death or separation, and are unable to care for them.

Princeton Man Speaks At Local Church

Dr. Charles T. Fritsch, a member of the faculty at Princeton Seminary in the field of Old Testament, was the guest speaker at the morning service at the Stroudsburg Presbyterian church yesterday.

Using Solomon's hymn of praise to springtime, he said that the voice of the turtle dove could remind Christians not only of the providential love of God for all of his creatures, but also of his forgiving and condescending love through which the sacrifice of Jesus could atone for the sins of mankind.

The choir under the direction of Vernon C. Imbt, sang Thiman's "Immortal, Invisible," as their anthem.

The pastor of the church, Rev. Ernest T. Campbell, was absent serving on the staff of the Presbyterian young people's camp, Camp Michaux, at Gardners.

The ceremony was performed by Rev. Warren L. Hackman, and Mrs. Evelyn Dietz was organist and William Brown, soloist.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, wore a gown of white imported embroidered organza over pink satin. Her fingertip veil of illusion net fell from a cloche trimmed with pearls, and she carried white orchids and stephanotis on her white prayer book.

Mrs. Thomas DeVito as matron of honor wore pink marquisette with a matching picture hat, and carried a bouquet of summer flowers.

The bridesmaids, Miss Dolores A. Handelson, and Miss Virginia DeVito, wore blue taffeta gowns with matching heart-shaped bonnets.

Robert Burger served as his brother's best man, and Delbert LaBar and Lefroy Treweeks were ushers.

A reception was held at the Bangor Jacksonian hall, and Mr. and Mrs. Burger are now on a trip to the New England states and Canada. On their return they will make their home in Slateford.

Both the bride and bridegroom are graduates of Bangor High school. Mrs. Burger is employed in the office of Herbert C. Cann and son, and Mr. Burger is associated with his father in the contracting business.

Joseph H. Andre, Regional Representative, Points Out Choremaster's Advantages

Now that summer is here, the man of the house is busy outdoors cleaning up the garden.

This is where the versatile Choremaster comes into its own. This precision built one-wheel garden tractor is really a year-round labor saver as the Choremaster can be used in the spring time for cultivating, cutting grass in the summer, sharpening tools or cutting wood in the fall and snow plowing in winter.

This can all be accomplished with a variety of attachments that can easily be installed in a matter of minutes.

Joseph H. Andre, of Stroudsburg RD 2, is the representative for the Choremaster in this area. Here are some of the advantages and features of the outstanding machine.

One practical unit for all your jobs. Thorough precision built gear reduction, the Choremaster puts all the power of the 2 to 3 h. p. air-cooled engine into doing the job. From an economy angle the Choremaster offers small investment yielding years of dividends.

Initial cost of Choremaster and attachments is amazingly low. Maintenance and gas consumption are negligible. This versatile machine is engineered and precision built by one of the industry's famous firms. The Choremaster is produced to bring you top quality.

Between the row cultivation—

the one wheel feature of the Choremaster permits cultivation at any time during the growing season. Operation ease — proper weight distribution makes the Choremaster well balanced and easy to handle. Clutch and throttle on the handles provide fingertip control. Attachments — The attachments are either mounted from front or rear of Choremaster in a matter of minutes, enabling quick change for numerous jobs. Centrifugal clutch—This accessory provides complete control of the Choremaster by the throttle, saves engine life and makes attachments easy to handle.

Some of the attachments that can be installed on your Choremaster in a matter of minutes include a sickle bar, belt reduction and gear box type. These are the movers for heavy duty grass and weed cutting. Thirty-two inch sickle bar is driven from the tractor's high speed power take-off. Trims close to fences. Easily maneuvered in and out of corners. Three points of ground contact permits moving over all ground contours. Gear box type with anti-friction bearings throughout bevel gear box and pitman for long life.

It also has a Seedmaster seeder for planting large area. Attaches easily to Choremaster; driven by slow power take-off. Centrifugal clutch feature controls seeds at all times; for every type of garden seed.

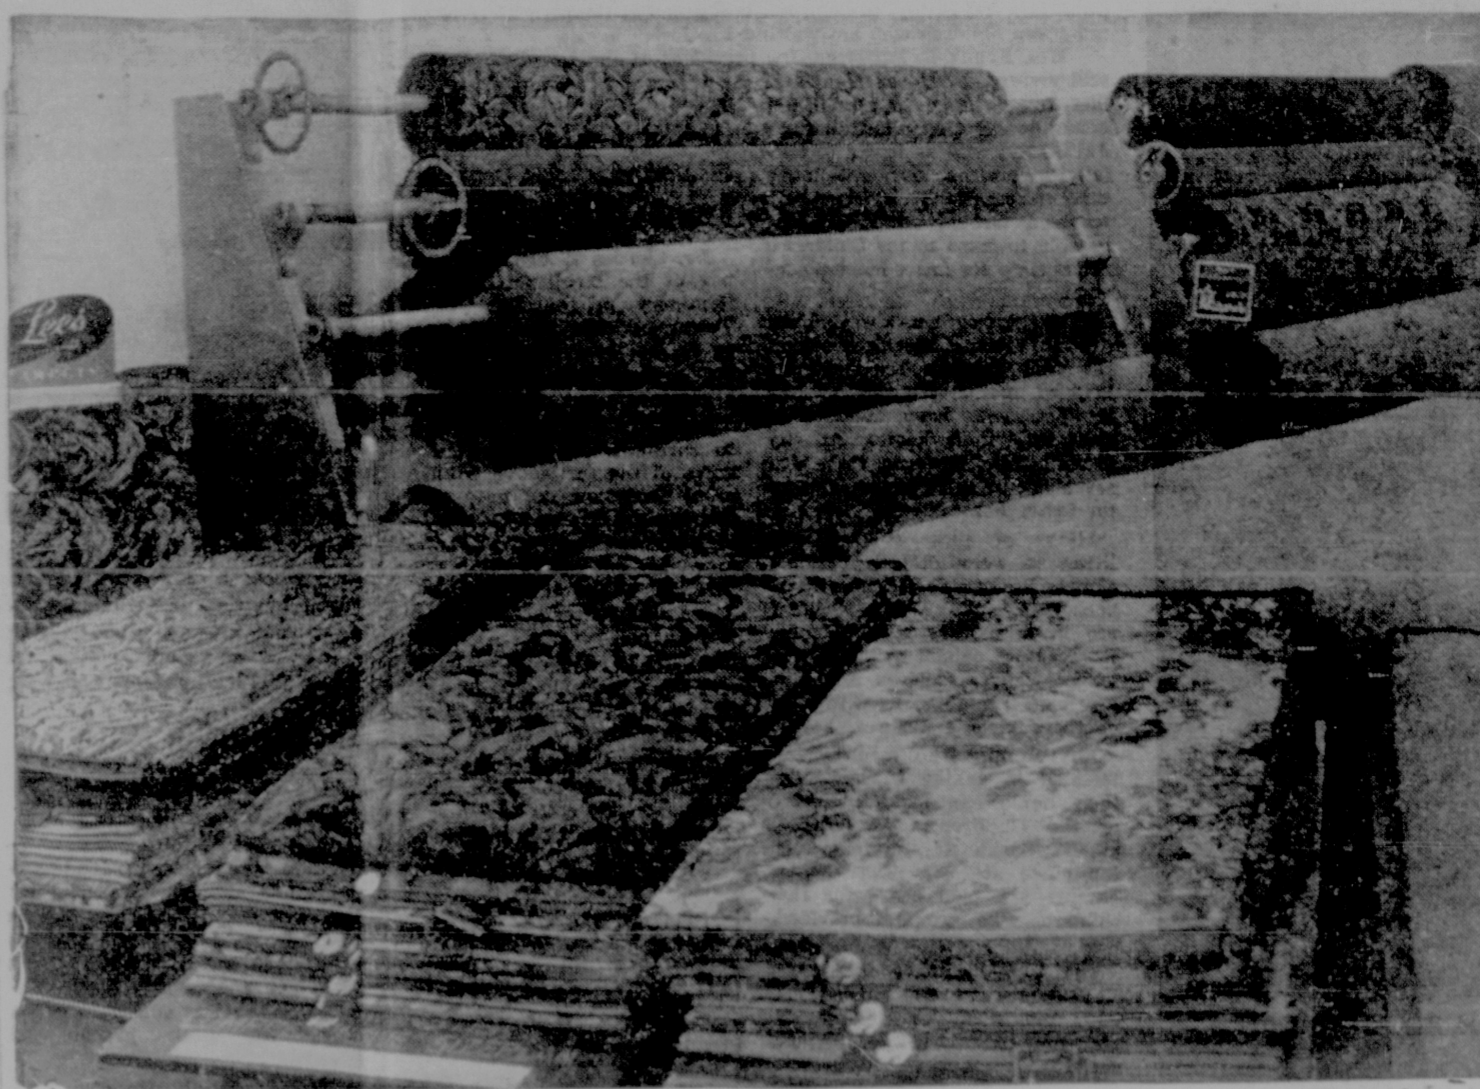

Hitch your present hand mower to Choremaster power and this lowest universal hitch does the trick. Merely substitute universal lawn mower hitch for the present handle, attach to Choremaster and presto! A power mower.

There is an air compressor which is attached to Choremaster power which does work in a matter of minutes, which ordinarily takes hours to do. Indispensable for the general upkeep work, painting, fumigation, disinfecting, greasing and tire pumping. Supplies three cu. ft. at 60 lbs. pressure.

Walks and drives come clean in a hurry with the "Choremaster" snow plow. Broad sweep all-steel blade cuts 24" path even in deep snow. Use plow for leveling and light grading when winter's over. Dozer blade also available in 30-inch width.

Seedmaster seeder—For planting large areas. Attaches easily to Choremaster; driven by slow power take-off. Centrifugal clutch feature controls seeds at all times; for every type of garden seed.

Tardy Bonus Applicants Must Wait

Harrisburg (AP)—Some 4200 tardy applicants for Pennsylvania's World War Two bonus will have to wait until September 1 for their payments because of a legislative oversight.

Clyde E. Rankin, State Bonus bureau director, said a new law extending the bonus deadline failed to stipulate an effective date for the extension.

Consequently, he said, payments to late-filing applicants will have to be held up until September 1. All laws which do not have stipulated effective dates automatically go into effect on September 1.

The new law, signed by Fine on May 10, extends the bonus payment deadline from July 1, 1950 to next December 31. Rankin said if the extension law had contained an immediate effective date, his office could have started mailing tardy payments soon after May 10.

Rankin said however processing of late-filed applications is continuing, and added some 4200 checks totaling about $1,500,000 will be ready for mailing by September 1.

In addition to the latecomers, Rankin said about 40,000 veterans have yet to receive their final payments for overseas service.

"These are the remainder of the 150,000 cases where lack of verification of foreign service permitted us to make payment only at the domestic rate," Rankin said.

These cases are now being cleared at the rate of about 800 a day, Rankin stated.

The bonus chief said a total of 1,132,639 Pennsylvania veterans of World War Two, or their dependents, have received $413,116,502 in bonus claims so far.

Child Suffocates In Pittsburgh Fire

Pittsburgh (AP)—Two four-alarm fires yesterday killed a three-year-old girl, injured her mother, father and a sister and caused damage estimated at $13,000 to two buildings.

Young Mary Beth Lazzor suffocated in a four-alarm blaze which swept an east end apartment house.

Her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Paul Lazzor, and five-month-old sister, Deborah, also were overcome by smoke but were revived. Three other families in the building escaped unhurt.

Decline In DPA Rolls Fall Off

Harrisburg (AP)—The rate of decline in Pennsylvania's relief rolls has started to taper off, the Department of Public Assistance reported yesterday.

A department survey showed the decline during the last half of June amounted to approximately 4,750 as compared with an average decrease of around 6,200 persons during each of the past several semi-monthly periods.

The present decline represents a drop of approximately two percent from the total number receiving relief.

Fine Puts Power Of Purse Pressure On Legislature To Pass His Tax Program

Harrisburg, (AP)—Gov. John S. Fine put power-of-the-purse pressure on the General Assembly yesterday to pass his long bottled-up tax program.

The executive signed a bill Saturday increasing expense allowances of members of the Legislature from $1200 to $1800 a year but withheld most of the money until the assembly provides the revenue.

Fine refused to approve an appropriation of $232,200 for payment of the expense increase for the present biennium but said there is sufficient money left from a previous appropriation to pay the $300 increase due July 1.

"I will not approve any further amount for the purposes of this bill," the Governor said bluntly, "until the Legislature provides sufficient revenue to care for human needs, for essential services, for our public institutions, hospitals, colleges, medical schools, soldiers' bonus, school subsidies and for salary increases for teachers, and for all State employees."

The dramatic development came as the assembly starts the seventh month of the prolonged 1951 session without any indication of a break in the dispute over the need of increased taxes. The Legislature reconvenes today after a week's recess for the July Fourth holiday.

While still plugging for the income tax, Fine told reporters over the weekend he would consider any substitute tax program but only after it has been taken up with the Republican leadership of the House. Tax measures must originate in the House.

The Governor made the statement when questioned about efforts of the Senate GOP compromise committee to find a solution for the stalemate. That committee, composed of four administration supporters and four income tax opponents, has discussed a long series of possible levies as a substitute for the income tax without reaching agreement on a program.

During the business meeting, it was decided to postpone the swimming party this week, due to the dance at the lake. All were reminded about the bake sale, Saturday July 7, at Schicks and Brintons stores. Baked goods will be collected. Brown Calls For Licensing Of Homes

Harrisburg, (AP)—The State Welfare department yesterday urged legislative action against what it termed "shameful" conditions existing in some commercial boarding homes for children and the aged in Pennsylvania.

William C. Brown, State welfare secretary, called for passage of bills now before the Legislature which would grant the State licensing power over such institutions.

Brown said the legislation is "vital to bettering shameful and sub-standard conditions of Pennsylvania's children and aged persons."

"We have in the files of the department cases on which abuse, neglect and exploitation of children in foster homes which, because of loopholes in the present laws, we cannot touch," Brown asserted.

"Some of the places now operating, however, beyond our scope, are literally cesspools of filth, privation and cruelty," he added.

The corrective legislation is up for a final vote in the House today. One bill would require licensing of all commercial boarding homes for the aged for the first time, while two others would strengthen present licensing laws for foster homes for children.

The average U. S. motorist pays 66 cents in taxes every time he buys 10 gallons of gasoline.

Life of Riley

By JIM RILEY
Sports Editor

Football fans of Monroe county are all wishing Clarence "Buck" Pipher a speedy recovery from a knee operation performed last Tuesday at St. Luke's hospital in Bethlehem. In an effort to further his grid career, Pipher took it upon himself to undergo surgery to correct damage done at mid-season last year, while holding down an end position on the East Stroudsburg State Teachers College grid machine. Although Pipher played after the injury, he never regained his former outstanding ability and hurt the knee on at least two other occasions.

Prior to the injury the Stroudsburg High school graduate was the best player on the ESSTC forward wall, with no doubt involved. However, although he tried desperately, Pipher couldn't regain his early season form and the entire ESSTC squad suffered. Eight months after the injury Pipher's knee was still in bad condition so the operation was decided upon by Pipher and his family. Every person who has ever watched "Buck" play football will be pulling for him with all their might, hopeful of seeing him in the grid wars once again in the near future.

Speaking of injuries brings to mind the fact that Jimmy Werkheiser, shortstop for Pocono A.C., broke his nose while chasing a pop fly in yesterday's Blue Mountain league game with Stockertown. The peppy shortstop collided with the center fielder Alden "Red" Fetherman in short center field, but held the ball after the catch. Art Osmun, shortstop for Portland, nearly severed a finger on his throwing hand after getting the digit caught in a lawn mower.

Harry Schaeffer, a graduate of East Stroudsburg State Teachers College and a member of the Stroudsburg Poconos' mound corps during the 1946 and 1947 seasons, was named to the team representing the south in the Texas league all-star game to be played this Thursday. Nat Peoples, former member of the Indianapolis Clowns, the same Negro team that played in Bangor last Thursday, is now on the roster of the Elmira entry in the class "A" Eastern league. Alex McNeel, former hurler with Nazareth, North Atlantic league and now with Williamsport, Eastern league, exchanged blows with Joe Belcastro, Albany outfielder, when the former accused the pitcher of throwing a duster.

John Drew, first string catcher with Pocono A. C., missed yesterday's game with Stockertown, the first contest the steady catcher has skipped this season. Drew is enjoying a vacation at the present time. Don Sweda was back in action for the first time in several games. Blakeslee's Pocono Sunrise Speedway will be featuring something new in stock car racing in this area, when the track holds a twilight card on Friday night, with the first race listed for 7:30.

Yesterday's triple play was the first of the season for Pocono A. C. and the second turned in by a Blue Mountain League entry during the 1951 campaign. Johnsonville is credited with the other triple killing. Alden "Red" Fetherman, two circuit amashes yesterday was the first such feat performed by a Pocono A. C. player this season. The first blow cleared the left field fence at 360 feet, while the second was an inside the park job to right center, 400 feet from home plate.

Henry Johns and Evan Diehl, grounds keepers at Gordon Giffels field spent the weekend fishing at Cape May, N. J. When not keeping the local ball yard in good condition, this pair likes nothing better than to spend a lot of time at the water. Sports fans of the Stroudsburgs are in for an important announcement in the very near future, one that may break at any time. The Blue Mountain League pennant race looks like it will be a three-team affair like to the final day of the campaign.

Pocono A. C. is busily selling tickets for a special booster game and this writer is among many that are hopeful that the people of Monroe County will purchase all the tickets printed and make the local Blue Mountain League entry a solid financial organization during its first year of activity. The A. C. contingent plays an exhibition contest at Nazareth on Wednesday night. Nazareth is campaigning in the Tri-County League this season. Hazleton, a member of the North Atlantic League for two years, is now franchising in the class "B" Inter-State League.

Golf week begins at Shawnee next Sunday and lasts until the following Sunday, with the golf course scheduled for a steady pattern of play, featuring some professionals well known in their respective home areas. Danny Ring, pitcher for both Stroudsburg and Mahanoy City in the North Atlantic League, is still holding for the Old City entry in the Middle Atlantic League, a class "C" organization. While with the Pocono Ring played under his right name of Wengrowich.

A. C. Wins Second Straight From Stockertown

East Bangor Scores Verdict Over Johnsonville Rival, 7-3

East Bangor—East Bangor retained a half game of league leading Pocono A. C., in the red-hot Blue Mountain pennant race with a 7-3 victory over Johnsonville yesterday, on the winning team's home surroundings. However, Johnsonville was the home team due to the fact that the last place club doesn't have a field of its own this season.

Saylorsburg Crushes Kemp Post in League Contest, 13-1

Saylorsburg—George N. Kemp American Legion Post was no match for Saylorsburg in the former's initial Pocono Mountain league venture here yesterday and the home team walked off with a 13-1 victory, to maintain its second place standings.

Kemp Post pushed across its lone tally in the third inning, but Saylorsburg came back to dominate the contest for the remainder of the distance.

Big Innings

Saylorsburg tallied four times in the bottom of the third, three more in the fifth, two in the sixth and four in the seventh round, while the newly installed league members were finding it impossible to score further off the south-paw slants of Bob Seip.

Seip finished the game with 15 strikeouts and allowed only one free ticket to first base.

Detroit (AP)—Big Don Newcombe of pennant-minded Brooklyn and Ned Garver of the last-place St. Louis Browns are expected to be the starting pitchers tomorrow in the eighteenth all-star baseball game at Briggs stadium.

"Expected" is the word because managers Casey Stengel of the American league and Eddie Sawyer of the Nationals won't announce batting orders and pitchers until tomorrow morning. Stengel and Sawyer have been occupied with more urgent business lately.

Here is a pleasant little game that will give you a message every day. It is a numerical puzzle designed to spell out four words. Count the letters in your first name. If the number of letters is 6 or more, subtract 4. If the number is less than 6, add 3. The result is your key number. Start at the upper left-hand corner of the rectangle and check every one of your key numbers, left to right. Then read the message the letters under the checked figures give you.
